

The Best Practices in Publishing Program for Graduate Students

The Best Practices in Publishing program provides opportunities to discuss research and publishing-related issues with graduate students from across the University. Over seven sessions in the fall, a range of topics will be introduced and discussed with campus experts, including experienced faculty.

The BPIP program will be limited to 30 students. Sessions will be Tuesdays, 5:00-6:30 p.m.

Workshop Schedule: (subject to change of topics each week)

Sept 5 th	Publishing: The Long Journey - Part I (A Panel Discussion), Hodges Library, Rm127
Sept 12 th	Authorship Decisions and Concerns, Hodges Library, Rm 127
Sept 19 th	Plagiarism, Research Misconduct, and Other Ethical Considerations, Hodges Library, Rm 127
Sept 26 th	Citation Management, Hodges Library, Rm 127
Oct 3 rd	Copyright and Ownership, Hodges Library, Rm 127
Oct 10 th	Publishing: The Long Journey - Part II (How to Publish), Hodges Library, Rm 127
Oct 17 th	Wrap-Up, Reception and Certificate Presentations, Hodges Library, Mary Greer Room

Participants will be required to attend and submit reflections and critiques of each session. In addition, participants will be required to participate in discussions and question-and-answer sessions. You must attend all sessions to receive the certificate. An anonymous submission form will allow participants to submit questions of a sensitive nature ahead of time so speakers will be able to discuss real concerns.

Upon successful completion of the program, you will receive a certificate acknowledging your participation in the program; this certificate should be a welcome addition to the dossier that you will need in applying for faculty positions and/or for retention/promotion.

Registration opens Tuesday, August 15, at 9 a.m. Registration link: <https://tiny.utk.edu/BPIP>
